FRAMEWORK AND GUIDELINES

LOYAL TO THE FOUNDER'S ORIGINAL PHILOSOPHY, THE FOUNDATION JOHN BOST AFFIRMS AND ACKNOWLEDGES:

- The dignity of the human being, whatever illness, disability or challenges disrupt their life.
- Recognition of the importance of the struggle against suffering.
- Vulnerability as one of the fundamental features of humanity.
- The power of every individual to improve.
- The right of every person to benefit from personalised and adapted support.
- The vocation of each person to be an actor in their social life and life as a citizen.
- Collaboration and multi-disciplinary reflections and actions.

INFORM | CHANGE OPINIONS

THE ORIGINS....THE PRESENT....AND THE FUTURE

Promoting and striving to change opinions in society towards disabled people by encouraging the integration of those who are intellectually and physically challenged, people with mental illness or elderly dependent people.

« I shall welcome those whom everybody rejects in my Lord’s name. »

The Foundation John Bost was created in 1848.
Since its beginning John Bost wanted those who he welcomed to be in an open environment “without walls and fences” where he would “put flowers along their paths”. This message was addressed to people in social distress, children with disabilities and people with incurable illnesses for whom no other care was provided. Before his death in 1881, nine self-contained pavilions were created in La Force, Dordogne.

HOUSE OF JOHN AND EUGENIE BOST

In order to share its long and rich history, the Foundation opened a museum in 2017, a place to discover and conserve this great and exceptional human adventure.

Promoting and striving to change opinions in society towards disabled people by encouraging the integration of those who are intellectually and physically challenged, people with mental illness or elderly dependent people.

The quarterly magazine “Notre Prochain” is distributed to 7500 people including professionals, supporters, families, professional partners and institutions.

An ambitious willingness to implant structures close to large towns and cities.
